Eosinophilic Esophagitis (EE) is an inflammation (swelling) of the esophagus caused by allergy cells called eosinophils. In EE the entire length of the esophagus can become filled with eosinophils. This can lead to trouble swallowing, abdominal pain, vomiting, and an inability to eat enough food to grow properly. Due to lack of nourishment caused from multiple food allergies or intolerance to so many foods, some children must rely on a simplified liquid formula or a feeding tube for their nutrition on a daily basis.
